

South Viet Nam Expects Attack

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — South Vietnamese police sources said Wednesday they had been alerted to prepare for "special developments" stemming from imminent U.S. retaliation against the North Vietnamese attack on U.S. Navy ships Tuesday night.

No U.S. or Vietnamese officials would discuss the matter, but there were widespread unconfirmed reports that an attack on North Viet Nam might take place Wednesday.

Premier Nguyen Khanh met with his Cabinet, and none of his top ministers was available for comment.

An American military spokesman said a special announcement would be made in Saigon shortly.

U.S. Asks Fast U.N. Meeting

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The United States asked Tuesday night for an urgent meeting of the U.N. Security Council Wednesday morning to inform the council of its action against Communist North Viet Nam.

A spokesman for the U.S. delegation to the U.N. said the written request was sent to the Council president for August, Sivert A. Nielsen of Norway, about the time President Johnson was making his television announcement.

The request was signed by Chief U.S. Delegate Adlai E. Stevenson, who flew back to New York in mid-evening by military plane from a vacation in Maine.

Symington Wins Third Term

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Sticky heat and a heavy turnout marked the primary voting Tuesday as Missourians settled the tightest race for the Democratic governorship nomination in a decade or more.

U.S. Sen. Stuart Symington was a shoo-in for Democratic renomination for a third term and his November opponent was expected to be Jean Paul Bradshaw, 58, Springfield lawyer.

All incumbent congressmen, with one exception, anticipated little trouble.

Jailed Clergyman Stack Bricks

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Nine Negro and white clergymen, who chose jail to paying fines for a 1961 sit-in conviction, said they stacked brick and cut grass under armed guard Tuesday.

One, the Rev. Robert J. Stone of New York City, wore his collar instead of a prison shirt.

"I always wear my clerical collar while I'm working," he told a news conference.

The three Negroes spent the morning garbed in pale-blue prison uniforms, stacking the bricks in a huge open field, they said.

Plan Approved To Fill VP Spot

WASHINGTON (AP) — A formula for dealing with presidential inability and any vacancy in the office of vice president was unanimously approved Tuesday by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

The proposed amendment, developed by a judiciary subcommittee headed by Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., would permit filling the office of vice president through nomination by a president with confirmation by a majority of both houses of Congress.

Jersey Woman Drowned In Pond

MONTAGUE, N. J. (AP) — Mabel Nancy Palmer, 68, drowned in a pond Tuesday in the backyard of the home which she shared with her 58-year-old brother, John. She fell into the pond while her brother was at work, police said.

Market Sinks; Trade Moderate

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market Tuesday sank to its sharpest loss in two months, but trading was only moderately active.

Volume increased to 4.79 million shares from Monday's very low 3.8 million.

The Dow Jones Industrial average lost 7.58 at 832.77, its steepest decline since June 4 when it fell 9.31.

Petitions Sent To Lawmakers

County Firemen Ask Stronger Explosive Laws

STRODSBURG — Monroe County firemen yesterday requested regional state and federal representatives to press for five specific safeguards to prevent another explosion like the one that rocked Marshalls Creek, June 26, and left six dead.

Fire chiefs representing 17 county volunteer fire companies and the president of the Monroe Firemen's Assn. signed the petition. Copies were forwarded to: State Senator William Z. Scott, State Rep. Van D. Yetter Jr.

and U. S. Rep. Fred B. Rooney. The petition states:

A Tragedy

"The recent explosion near Marshalls Creek on June 26, 1964, was a tragedy this area will never forget. Incidents of this kind present a serious problem for both the general public and fire fighters of both rural and urban areas.

"It is a matter of conjecture what would have happened if the blast occurred in a heavily populated area. An explosion similar to the one at Marshalls Creek occurred in the city of Roseburg, Ore., on Aug. 7, 1959.

"At that time, a truck loaded with two tons of dynamite and four and a half tons of a blasting agent exploded, killing 13 persons and injuring more than a hundred others.

12 Block Area

"Most buildings in a 12 block area were completely destroyed. Hundreds of buildings in a 50-block area were damaged and fire involved more than 50 buildings. Property damage was estimated at nine million dollars.

"For purposes of comparison, the truck which exploded at Marshalls Creek contained almost two and a half times the quantity of explosives that devastated the central section of Roseburg.

"In the interest of public safety, as fire officials of this area, we strongly urge that the following safeguards be taken in addition to present or proposed laws:

8 Inch Markings

1. Markings on explosives trucks or rail cars be not less than eight inches high and made of a fluorescent material visible at the front, sides and rear for a distance of at least 300 feet.

2. That loaded explosives vehicles not be left unattended at any time, regardless of whether or not they are on a public highway or private property.

3. That any load over two tons of explosives must have two men on the vehicle while in transit.

4. That nitrocarbo nitrate be classified as an explosive.

5. That the quantity of explosives being transported on one vehicle be reduced considerably.

"We feel that these changes will benefit not only the public and firemen, but shippers and truckers as well."

Signers and the organizations they represent include:

C. David Blitt, president of the Monroe Firemen's Assn. and fire chiefs Ralph Miller, Marshalls Creek; Nelson Lightner, Strodsburg; Herman Meinhardt, East Strodsburg; Lester Rice, Strods Township; George Huelsen, Barrett Township.

Also, Ernest F. Bisbing, Pocono Mountain; James Anthony, Delaware Water Gap; George Kitchen, Saylorsburg; Carl Price, Jackson Township; Charles Kuecht, Coolbaugh Township; Al Wilson, Shawnee; Lewis Pysber, Kunkletown.

Also, Elwood L. Christman, Pocono Lake; Lawrence H. Dickinson, Bushkill; William Raish, Pocono Township; Olen Snyder, West End, and James Oakley, Tobyhanna.

Johnson Orders Air Strikes On N. Viet Nam After New Gunboat Attack On 2 U.S. Destroyers

U.S. Jets Attack Torpedo Bases

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson announced Tuesday night that U.S. air strikes were under way against Communist supply facilities in North Viet Nam, and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said they are continuing Wednesday.

In a Pentagon news conference following President Johnson's nationwide address, McNamara also disclosed that a military buildup is under way in Southeast Asia.

The Pentagon said two PT boats were believed sunk and two others damaged by U.S. counterfire.

In Saigon, South Vietnamese police sources said they had been alerted to prepare for "special developments" stemming from imminent U.S. retaliation against the North Vietnamese.

An American military spokesman said a special announcement would be made in Saigon shortly.

9 French Miners Rescued

CHAMPAGNE, France (AP) — Nine French miners imprisoned eight days deep in the collapsed chambers of a limestone mine were hauled safely up a rescue shaft Tuesday. A party with red wine and champagne awaited them.

Military ambulances took them to a hospital for checkups and any treatment they might need. The miners appeared to be in relatively good condition, though all but two had to be lifted into the ambulances.

Andre Martinet, the mine foreman, was among those who walked from the special aluminum capsule which plucked the men, one at a time, from their prison 270 feet below.

Weak Waves

Even those placed on stretchers managed smiles and weak waves to the hundreds of relatives and villagers clustered around.

Martinet had been a tower of strength to his men during the uncertainties of their ordeal. Shortly before the drill chieftain gingerly through the last crust of rock in the ceiling of the mine, Martinet joked with a doctor on the surface over a telephone.

"I've talked with you quite a lot," Martinet said. "I'd like to see you. And when I come up we will have a party with red wine and champagne."

However, doubt over the fate of five other men who had been down in the Mt. Rivel mine when it collapsed clouded the festive air which spread through the village in eastern France near the Swiss border.

Drilling Continues

Heavy drilling teams continued work toward another section of the mine where tapping sounds have been heard. Men and equipment involved in rescuing the nine reinforced the crews.

Battle Continues

Bangor Councilman Asks Scott Aid On Water Supply

BANGOR — Albert P. Jones, Bangor councilman, has written to U. S. Sen. Hugh Scott asking for help in what Jones called a "potentially dangerous situation" in the Bangor water supply.

Jones' plea concerns two storage reservoirs recently bought by the Bangor Water Co. as storage areas for drinking water.

In his letter Jones said "these so-called reservoirs are nothing more than abandoned slate quarries. Most of the abandoned quarries, after filling with water have become dumping places for various items of refuse, including dead animals."

Bangor Borough Council Monday night authorized Mayor Quintus LaBar to seek the aid of Northampton County members of the state assembly in requesting an investigation of the Bangor Water Co. and its program to supply water to the Bangor area.

State Approval

The company insists the water in the reservoirs meets all state requirements.

It is backed up by the State Department of Health. John Duerr, state department official, recently reported that the new reservoirs are being constantly tested and have met all requirements for use.

In his letter to Sen. Scott, Jones included a copy of a report made for him by the Pocono Biological Laboratory in Strodsburg. Jones took samples of water from the Oxford Reservoir (Old New York Quarry) to the laboratory for testing.

Un satisfactory

The laboratory report stated the water "is found to be of unsatisfactory sanitary quality for domestic use unless chlorinated and otherwise treated." The Bangor Water Co. does chlorinate its water.

The report gave the total bacteria count as 300 per milliliter. It should not be over 200, Jones maintains. The coliform bacteria count was 5.0 per 100 milliliter. It should be none, according to the report.

The report continued, "The standard method for judging the suitability of water for domestic use is the coliform test specified by the American Public Health Assn. The dwelling places in the bowels of man and animals are discharged by bowel movements."

"Hence any food or water sample in which this class of germ is found is to be suspected of having come in contact with manure or sewage and it follows that the source is not protected against the entry of such serious germs as those that cause typhoid, dysentery, infectious jaundice, etc."

"Is No Guarantee"

"The fact that a water supply has been utilized for a long time without bad results is no guarantee of its safety. People may develop a tolerance for germs to which they are regularly exposed, but strangers are often made ill by drinking water that has not disturbed the regular residents."

"When pollution is detected it is not always due to sewage contamination. Frequently faults in construction and pump installation are found and when corrections are made such facilities may be restored to safety and usefulness."

"The report closed by saying, 'When sewage from sewers, ponds and so forth is suspected, it can frequently be detected by means of tracer dyes or by chemical study of the water.'"

The report was signed by Arthur M. She, director of the Pocono Biological Laboratory.

"Delay Can Be Dangerous"

In his letter, Jones summarized by stating "I am sure you will agree that in this situation delay can be dangerous for our community. I cannot stress too strongly my utmost concern in this matter."

Roseto Also

Protests Water

ROSETO — Anthony Z. Falcone, Roseto Borough Councilman, proposed the council hire a chemist to test boron drinking water at Monday night's council meeting.

Falcone said when the franchise was given to the Bangor Water Co. it specified the company was to supply spring water. The company is now using abandoned slate quarries as reservoirs.

Falcone stated that when he worked in the quarries the boiler inspectors would not allow quarry water to be used in the boilers. Falcone said "if it isn't good enough for boilers, it can't be good enough for humans."

Gov't. Workers Pay Boost Approved By Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress quickly hustled passage Tuesday of a bill providing yearly pay raises ranging from $10,000 for some top government officials down to $100 for lowest ranking Civil Service and postal employees.

The bill, covering about 1.7 million federal employees, now going to the White House for signing by a sympathetic President Johnson, who has repeatedly contended federal salaries are too low to attract and keep highly competent personnel.

Members of Congress, who frequently worry about voting themselves pay raises in an election year, appeared assured the action would not become an issue this time.

Just before the house shouted through the bill by voice vote, Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., said both Johnson and Sen. Barry Goldwater, Republican presidential nominee, favored it.

Senate Followed Suit

A few hours later, the Senate followed suit, also by voice vote.

Members of congress get $7,500 salary hikes under the measure, bringing their pay to $30,000 a year except for the speaker of the House who gets an $8,000 boost to $43,000.

The vice president, now vacant, is also down for an $8,000 increase to $43,000.

Asks Congress Support, U. N. Council Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson announced Tuesday night that "air action is now in execution against gunboats" of North Viet Nam which attacked U.S. destroyers twice in the Gulf of Tonkin.

Johnson also announced he has directed Adlai Stevenson, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, to raise the matter of the attacks "immediately and urgently" before the Security Council of the United Nations.

"Limited Response"

Johnson said that for the present, America's response to what he called "this outrage" in the Gulf of Tonkin "will be limited and fitting."

Nevertheless he declared: "But repeated acts of violence against the armed forces of the United States must be met not only with alert defense, but with positive reply. That reply is being given as I speak to you."

"Air action is now in execution against gunboats and certain supporting facilities of North Viet Nam which have been used in the hostile operations."

Congress Resolution

The President said that he also is asking Congress to adopt a resolution "making it clear that our government is united in its determination to take all necessary measures in support of freedom, and in defense of peace, in Southeast Asia."

The chief executive injected word that he had reached Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, the Republican presidential nominee, in Balboa, Calif., to tell him what he was going to say.

"I am glad to say he has expressed his support of the statement I am making tonight," Johnson said.

Johnson said he also had been given assurances the resolution he wants from Congress will be passed quickly with overwhelming support.

Johnson reported to the nation by radio and television — at the request of the networks — several hours after a 90-minute conference with congressional leaders of both parties and other top officials.

Second Attack

The conference followed right after disclosure by the pentagon of a second North Vietnamese attack on U.S. destroyers — the Maddox and the C. Turner Joy, in which it said two of the attacking Red PT boats were probably sunk and two others damaged.

The Maddox had come under similar attack on Sunday. No U.S. casualties were reported in either incident.

His speech followed a day of high level, major conferences, two with the policy shaping National Security Council, one with the Cabinet and the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and finally one with 16 Republican and Democratic leaders of Congress.

Military Action

It was more than three hours after the congressional session broke up that Johnson went on the air to speak as President and Commander in Chief and say that renewed hostile actions against U.S. ships on the high seas had required him to "order the military forces of the United States to take action in reply."

"The Sunday attack against the Maddox in international waters in the Gulf of Tonkin, was followed by the second attack Tuesday morning, Washington time, against the Maddox and the destroyer C. Turner Joy in the same general area."

Torpedoes Fired

Johnson said a number of hostile vessels attacked with torpedoes.

In repelling Tuesday's attack, he said the destroyers and supporting aircraft acted under his orders to attempt to destroy the attackers.

"We believe at least two of the attacking boats were sunk," Johnson said. "There were no U.S. losses."

Support Facilities

In speaking of air action under way against hostile gunboats even as he was on the air, Johnson did not elaborate on what he meant by "certain supporting facilities of North Viet Nam" — whether shore bases or larger supply ships. Any elaboration was left to the Defense Department.

Johnson said the aggression aimed directly at American forces brings home to all in this country the importance of the struggle for peace and security in Southeast Asia.

Tempering this with word that the reaction for the moment will be limited and fitting, Johnson added that "we Americans know, although others appear to forget, the risks of spreading conflict — we still seek no wider war."

Senate Acts Fast On Reapportionment

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill to delay court-ordered legislative reapportionments won speedy Senate committee approval Tuesday and was ticketed for a fast ride to President Johnson's desk.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., said he will try to attach the measure to the $3.5 billion foreign aid authorization bill now before the Senate.

"The foreign aid bill is certain to hit the President's desk soon," Dirksen told newsmen.

Dirksen, the Senate Republican leader, predicted quick Senate approval after the Judiciary Committee voted 10 to 2 to clear the bill without the usual formality of public hearings.

Court Order

Dirksen said a stay of court orders for reapportionment was needed to counter what he described as chaos "when the courts assume the role and function of the legislative branch of government."

Last June 15 the Supreme Court laid down a one-man-one-vote rule which would have the effect of giving cities greater representation in state legislatures and reducing the influence of rural areas.

Several states have been ordered by federal courts to reapportion both branches of their legislature — which could be two years or more.

To Run Tests

Moore said he had talked with Mississippi officials and the university medical center in Jackson for identification tests.

The three, Andrew Goodman, James Earl Ray and Michael Henry Schwerner, were last seen the night of June 21 near Philadelphia.

The FBI said a search party of FBI agents turned up in woods and underbrush several hundred yards off route 21.

Fairly Certain

Troy Moore, chief of the FBI office in the Mississippi capital, said his agency is "fairly certain" the bodies are those of the missing workers but he cannot be positive until laboratory tests are made.

Moore said his men at the scene radioed back that "it is a dirty, nasty job picking up the bodies. They had to be loaded into bags and put into cars" to remove them from the isolated scene. The bodies were discovered in graves in a wooded area about six miles southwest of Philadelphia, around 6:30 p.m. The only word the FBI received was by radio from its agents.

FBI Find 3 Bodies In Mississippi Graves

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The FBI Tuesday night found three bodies buried in graves at a dam site near Philadelphia, Miss., where a trio of civil rights workers vanished six weeks ago.

Falcone said when the franchise was given to the Bangor Water Co. it specified the company was to supply spring water. The company is now using abandoned slate quarries as reservoirs.

Falcone stated that when he worked in the quarries the boiler inspectors would not allow quarry water to be used in the boilers. Falcone said "if it isn't good enough for boilers, it can't be good enough for humans."

Goldwater Backs LBJ's Decision

BALBOA, Calif. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater backed up President Johnson's position on Viet Nam Tuesday night even before it was made public.

The President had tried to reach Goldwater three times during the day, but the Republican presidential candidate was out on his yacht.

Goldwater could not be reached until he docked.

The GOP nominee gave no clue as to what was in the President's statement. But he said, "I am sure that every American will subscribe to the actions outlined in the President's statement. I believe it is the only thing he can do under the circumstances. We cannot allow the American flag to be shot at anywhere on earth if we are to retain our respect and prestige."

State News Roundup

Conservation Aide Named

HARRISBURG (AP)—Agriculture Secretary Leland B. Bull Tuesday named Charles F. Hess, Manheim, as director of the state Soil and Water Conservation Commission, effective Aug. 10.

Hess, who will receive $9,923 a year in the post, succeeds David G. Unger, who resigned.

A native of Forty Fort, Hess attended schools in Wilkes-Barre and was graduated from Pennsylvania State University with two degrees in agricultural education.

PUC Rejects Rate Increase

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Public Utility Commission Tuesday suspended for up to six months a $5,400 rate increase sought by the Wellsboro Electric Co., Wellsboro.

The firm asked the increase to be made effective Aug. 10, but the commission said it needed more time to study the request.

House Stops Water Flow

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House passed Monday a bill to prevent the Army Engineers from filling the Allegheny River reservoir before New York's Seneca Indians to be displaced by the project are relocated.

The bill passed Monday and sent to the Senate was introduced by Rep. James A. Haley, D-Fla., while the House Interior Subcommittee was drafting a Seneca Indian compensation bill last year.

Action by the House stems from failure of a Senate-House Conference Committee to agree on the amount of damage and rehabilitation funds the Seneca Indians should get for loss of much of their Allegheny reservation in Western New York to the new reservoir.

Sloan Votes No On Moving Office

HARRISBURG (AP)—State Treasurer Grace M. Sloan Tuesday challenged the Scranton administration's plan to move a state office from Harrisburg to the governor's home town area in the city of Scranton.

The three-member Workmen's Insurance Fund Board voted last week by a 2-1 vote to transfer its office to Scranton, with Mrs. Sloan, a Democrat, voting no.

GSA Calls For Bids

HARRISBURG (AP)—The General State Authority Tuesday called for bids Sept. 2 on projects in Lancaster, Potter and Lycoming counties.

The GSA said it will receive bids for construction of an addition to the shop building at Thaddeus Stevens Trade School in Lancaster County. It has allocated $225,000 for construction.

Bids also were called for to construct two Forests and Waters Department district offices to serve Susquehannock and Tiadaghton state forests.

The Susquehannock office is to be located at Coudersport in Potter County at a cost not to exceed the allocation of $38,500.

Truck Accident Halts Traffic

HARRISBURG (AP)—A tractor-trailer accident resulted in closing the New Street Bridge at Bethlehem Tuesday, the state Highways Department reported.

A spokesman said the vehicle hit a vertical span on the south end of the bridge, causing considerable damage to the structure. The bridge parallels traffic Rte. 191 on Main Street at Bethlehem. The span was closed at 2 p.m.

Highways officials said it was the third time in recent months that a highway bridge has been damaged by a tractor trailer.

Unemployment Down In State

HARRISBURG (AP)—Unemployment in Pennsylvania dropped by 10,000 between June and July, the State Labor and Industry Department said Saturday.

Unemployment at mid-July stood at 264,000, the lowest level for the month since July of 1953, according to the latest department statistics.

Poverty Bill Nears Decisive Vote

By Congressional Quarterly WASHINGTON (CQ)—As President Johnson's anti-poverty bill approaches a decisive vote in the House of Representatives, the variety of the programs it encompasses in the two parties. GOP leaders have announced that the $982.5 million proposal is "beyond repair." Rather than seeking to amend it, they plan to concentrate their efforts on defeating the entire bill.

Republicans attack the poverty bill as an "election-year gimmick," a hodge-podge of tired old proposals which would have little effect on the causes of poverty. They argue that the wide variety of programs, coordinated in a central office by a "poverty czar," would duplicate existing efforts and would provide an unnecessary new bureaucracy.

Administration officials claim that this variety of programs, aimed at separate groups and problems, is the key to the program. It is essential, they say, to attack the many interrelated causes of poverty. They maintain that the central office, with its new lines of authority, will do away with waste and duplication and will facilitate local cooperation.

Between the generalities of partisan debate, and the complexities of the programs themselves, it is sometimes difficult to determine exactly what the bill attempts to do.

Each of the 11 programs in the proposal is aimed at one or more aspects of the poverty problem. Some sections are geared to the needs of a particular group, such as school drop-outs or migrant laborers. Others attack a certain problem, such as adult illiteracy, which is common to many occupations and areas.

In addition, the bill provides for a new community action program, designed to help local organizations help the poor.

Youth Programs

The bill sets up three separate programs for youths: the Job Corps centers, for those who seem to need a complete change of environment, the local work-training program to employ young people in jobs useful to their own communities, and the work-study program to provide part-time work for college students.

Most Job Corps participants would be school drop-outs who are unemployed and eligible for training programs. Enrollees would live away from home, either in a federal conservation camp where they would gain work experience or in a residential training center. Basic education courses would be provided in both kinds of centers. Graduates of the conservation camps would be able to move on to training centers to learn a specific skill.

Under the work-training program, the Government would assist local agencies to give full or part-time jobs to young people in their home community. It is hoped that the jobs would give the youths job experience and the impetus to continue or resume their schooling.

The work-study program would employ those students who have reached college, but whose families are unable to give them financial help.

Community Action Program

Administration officials see the community-action program as the unique feature of the poverty bill. It would allow local public and/or private groups to draw up their own plans, geared to their own needs. If these plans were approved by the Director of the poverty office, the community group would then receive as much assistance as it needed to carry out the projects.

Assistance would be used, for the most part, for education, training, social services and other "human development" programs, rather than for construction of facilities. Emphasis would be placed on the participation of the poor, both in the planning and implementing of the programs.

Community planners would be encouraged to launch a network of programs to deal with the interrelated causes of poverty. A wider variety of approaches would be available to them than under any existing legislation.

Moreover, the poverty bill seeks to take advantage of current programs, and to further coordinate them. For example, in a new housing development efforts could be undertaken to promote education for the inhabitants in their improved environment.

The problem of education might be attacked simultaneously by a variety of ways: Children of poor families could be offered remedial help in reading in special after-school and summer programs; trips and activities could be provided to fill the cultural gaps of the slum or the isolated village; pre-school programs could prepare disadvantaged children to enter first grade with the same chance as other children; and high school and college students could be employed as tutors.

Office of Economic Opportunity

The Office of Economic Opportunity would coordinate all the programs in the bill, and would directly administer the Job Corps, community action and volunteer programs.

The bill would permit the Director of OEO to draw up criteria for programs receiving federal funds. Although the bill provides the total amount if he thinks it necessary.

Raw Sewage Halts Swimming

3 Areas Of Harvey's Lake "Heavily Contaminated"

WILKES BARRE, Pa. (AP)—Three specific sections of Harvey's Lake are "heavily contaminated" and most of the lake has "light to moderate contamination," and it is risky to swim at any point, according to the state health department Monday.

The announcement followed analysis of samplings taken at all points of the lake last week. Harvey's Lake is the second largest natural body of water in the state.

Health Department officials said the analysis revealed that "heavy contamination" was found at Sunset Section, Warden Place and Laketon.

"Light to moderate contamination" was found in most of the lake.

The department also said that streams entering the lake at the Sunset and Laketon sections are "heavily contaminated."

Health officials reported that "it is risky to swim at any point at Harvey's Lake."

In addition to the contamination report, the Health Department reported that the public bathing facilities at Hanson's Park, the picnic grounds section, has been ordered closed by the state Justice Department for failure to obtain a public bathing permit.

Tests at various sections at Harvey's Lake revealed that raw sewage is flowing directly into the lake from at least four homes. The owners have been ordered to make immediate corrections.

Property Owners Added To List

HARVEYS LAKE, Pa. (AP)—Seven more property owners were notified by the state Health Department Tuesday to stop discharging raw sewage into Harvey's Lake, second largest natural lake in Pennsylvania and a main resort area in Luzerne County.

This brings the total of 11 places found to be discharging sewage into the lake.

The orders came in the wake of official reports by the department Monday that three sections of the lake were heavily contaminated and the lake generally has light to moderate contamination. Also, the department reported, it is risky to swim at any point.

Discrepancy

The biggest discrepancy occurred in liquor tax collections where $31,000 was obtained this past July as compared to $309,000 report for July a year ago.

Brackbill said the distortion in the figures could be attributed to bookkeeping methods.

HARRISBURG (AP)—The state collected $108,267 in taxes from harness racing at Meadows Track in Washington County last week, the State Revenue Department reported Monday.

This brought to $2,837,004 the amount of revenue obtained from the sport thus far this year, about $250,000 ahead of last season.

The figure includes 44 days of racing at Meadows, a completed 50-day meeting by the Liberty Bell Racing Association and 25 days of racing at the William Penn Racing Association, which uses Liberty Bell's facilities in Philadelphia.

Harmon Lists Problems, Costs Of Main St. Trees

By Jim Ottaway Jr.

STROUDSBURG — Many Stroudsburg residents can remember how Main St. was canopied by trees 50 years ago.

Today there are only five trees between 5th and 8th Streets — the center of Stroudsburg's downtown shopping area.

Progress — in the form of asphalt on the street surface, concrete sidewalks, sewer, water and electric lines underground, and natural hazards — in the form of cars hitting trees, storms, old age and scars from ice skates, snow shovels, bats and other innocent weapons — have killed many of the trees.

But many trees still live on Main St. from 8th to 9th Streets and from 5th to the interborough bridge and on side streets like Sarah, Thomas and Scott Streets and many other areas of Stroudsburg.

Plant New Trees

Last week the Daily Record revived an old proposal for replanting of shade trees on Main St. between 5th and 8th Streets to make this central shopping district of Stroudsburg cooler, more beautiful and attractive to tourists and shoppers in the summer.

What are the problems involved in replanting trees on Main St.? What trees will survive best with little moisture and intense heat? What are the possible costs?

To get answers to these questions, The Daily Record interviewed Russell Harmon, chairman of the Stroudsburg Shade Tree Commission for 25 years and tree expert at LaBar's Rhododendron Nursery in Stroudsburg.

Modern Hazards

Harmon said there are a number of trees that can survive and even flourish on Main St., but he cautioned that there are many problems in planting trees on Main St., and many threats to their lives after they are planted.

Cost Estimates

What would it cost to restore trees to Main St. from 5th to 8th Streets?

It would cost from $225 to $250 per shade tree, Harmon estimates. But he emphasizes that this is an approximate figure. It includes all costs of tree digging and planting.

The cost could be reduced if a number of trees were planted at once. Harmon suggested six or eight at a time, while workmen and contractors are on the job.

He said that trees should normally be spaced about 40 feet apart, but that street conditions and the wishes of individual merchants and property owners would prevent rigid adherence to that formula. They can be 35 or 45 feet apart, he said.

Taking Harmon's 40-foot spacing suggestion and dividing it into the approximately 1,700 feet from 5th St. to 8th St. on Main St., an estimate of 42 trees on one side of the street or 84 trees on both sides of the street is reached.

If the cost were $250 per tree, the total cost for 84 trees would be $21,000. If the cost rose to $300 a tree, the total cost would be $25,200.

The present budget of the Shade Tree Commission is $2,500 a year.

If the maximum cost estimate were spread over 10 years and eight trees were planted each year, the Main St. tree restoration program might cost the borough of Stroudsburg $2,500 a year — or about twice the Shade Tree Commission's present budget.

The major problems of planting trees on Main St. are cutting tree pits five feet by five feet by three or four feet deep and avoiding buried wires and utility lines.

Air hammers would have to be used to cut through cement sidewalks about two feet from the curbs to prevent overhanging car bumpers from hitting tree trunks.

The pit would have to be three or four feet deep, depending on subsoil conditions, Harmon said.

Then buried wires, gas, water and sewer lines, most of which are not adequately mapped, have to be avoided during the digging.

Harmon, who supervised the planting of 32 trees in Stroudsburg last year, said this is not an easy trick.

After 75 to 100 cubic feet of soil have been removed, good tree-supporting soil must be filled in. If the soil is good, costs come down.

Then the broken concrete edges of the tree pit must be refinished and the open part of the pit covered with blocks to allow water to seep down to the roots and pedestrians to pass over the pit safely.

A wire tree guard would have to be placed around the pit while the tree establishes itself.

Hazards to the life or health of trees are probably more numerous on Main St. than on Stroudsburg's side streets because of the greater pedestrian, shopper and automobile traffic.

A cut from a snow shovel, baseball bat or ice skate, a wound from a car crashing into a tree can cause its death.

Trees, like people, can get sick from numerous diseases or die from external wounds.

Moisture Problem

The lack of moisture is the major problem facing any tree planted on Main St. Because the earth around it is covered over with cement or asphalt, water cannot reach the tree's roots through natural processes.

Nearby merchants or property owners would have to help water new trees — probably once a week during the summer time.

"Frankly there are hazards, many hazards," Harmon said, summing up the difficulties of growing trees on Main St. But he said it can be done and outlined the types of trees which have been planted successfully on other Main Streets in other communities.

"I personally think that you should not put all your eggs in one basket. If something happens to one tree, it won't kill the rest of them if you have planted a few different trees," Harmon suggested.

What trees does he recommend?

The Ginkgo is his first choice. One was planted about 20 years ago in front of what is now Biggs American Restaurant at 746 Main St. by the Shade Tree Commission.

Harmon is amazed at the way it has grown and flourished, in spite of surrounding cement and hazards discussed above.

It can survive with little water and has small leaves which do not require raking.

He suggests planting this tree when it is at medium size of about two inches in trunk diameter and from 10 to 15 feet high.

He said it would look small for several years while it is establishing its roots and starting to grow but that it would provide substantial shade within three to five years.

"You get less shade at the beginning, but there is a greater chance for the tree to take hold and grow if you plant it when it is relatively small," Harmon explained.

Other trees mentioned by Harmon were the sugar maples and Norway maples, although the sugar maple has had a hard time during recent drought conditions and the Norway maple is good for only 20 to 25 years.

The little leaf linden is a smaller tree with more delicate bark easily damaged.

The honey locust, planted by Jesse Flory, a former LaBar expert, at the East Stroudsburg National Bank parking lot recently, has small leaves which disintegrate easily and do not require raking in the fall, Harmon said it is a tough tree.

He is also investigating recent experience in other communities with the green ash tree, and thinks the pin oak might be considered.

Welcome Visitors

The following letter to the editor of The Daily Record expresses an attitude so important to the Pocono Mountain vacation area that we are printing it in this space as an editorial with the hope that all residents of the area will follow its example:

Editor, The Daily Record:

Like many others in our county and particularly in the boroughs I think very often we become impatient with our visitors from New Jersey, New York and elsewhere, especially when we are driving behind an out of state car when you come to an intersection such as Stroudsburg's 5th and Main Streets.

We become irritated, blow our horns and I've even heard people yell from the windows of their cars.

Just put yourself in a similar position when you are vacationing or driving through a strange area.

Many areas have different driving regulations and I'm sure you can't understand why they should blow at you.

Anyway the idea of this letter is that we, in an area such as ours which is known as a vacation area, should make every effort to be patient with our visitors—many of whom are from our many fine hotels, motels, camps and recreation spots—as well as visitors in our homes.

We should offer aid and advice whenever we can, even to the extent of stepping up to someone on the street that you feel appears to be looking for some certain place.

I'm sure visitors would appreciate this and it would give our guests a much better feeling about our area.

After all—every business place, hotel, or any vacation spot is very important to the economy of our county.

Each one has a very important part in continuing to make Monroe County the fine vacation center it is as well as a beautiful and wonderful place in which to live, work and play.

Let's bend over backward if necessary to make all of our visitors welcome to Monroe County.

Torpedo That Missed

The repeated attacks by Communist North Vietnamese torpedo boats on the U. S. Destroyer Maddox 30 miles off North Viet Nam raises the question of what the United States would have done if one of the torpedos had found its mark and sunk the ship.

Similar incidents have led us into three major wars.

The sinking in 1898 of the U. S. Battleship Maine in Havana harbor started the Spanish-American War.

German sinking of the passenger ship Lusitania off the British Isles in 1915 led to American declaration of war in 1917 and our involvement in World War I.

Japanese sinking of the U. S. Gunboat Panay in 1937 on the Yangtze River in China foreshadowed their attack on Pearl Harbor in 1941 and our entrance into World War II.

President Johnson has issued strong orders to the U. S. Navy in Southeast Asia "to attack any force which attacks them in international water and to attack them not only with the objective of driving off the attack force but of destroying them."

He ordered continued patrols in the Gulf of Tonkin off North Viet Nam, addition of one destroyer to these patrols, and combat air cover over the destroyer. These are strong words.

We cannot declare war with North Viet Nam and Red China and Russia over this incident. But the lessons of history are gloomy, and the danger of general war in Southeast Asia is great today.

Comment Of The Day

"I've talked with you quite a lot. I'd like to see you. And when I come up, we will have a party with red wine and champagne."

Dining Room Kernels

WASHINGTON — A tour of the senate dining room at luncheon the other day produced a few gleanings of intelligence, political and apolitical. Among the kernels winnowed were:

Sen. Hugh Scott, the liberal Republican from Pennsylvania, said he had studied President Johnson's thesis on unacceptable and acceptable for vice president.

"My poor eyes," said Sen. Scott, "are strained from trying to read between the lines."

"Mine aren't," said Sen. Norris Cotton, liberal Republican from New Hampshire.

"It looks as if I'm Lyndon's choice for running mate. Lyndon said it wouldn't be anybody from his cabinet, or anybody who meets regularly with his cabinet. Nobody meets as irregularly with his cabinet as I do."

"I'm an irregular too," said Sen. Scott. "But I don't think that makes me Lyndon's No. 1 choice."

The Pennsylvanian pointed across the room at Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota, and murmured — with a strangely droll look on his face:

"I think the Atlantic City beauty parlor has narrowed down to Miss Minnesota."

Instead of asking him to interpret this utter crypticism, other senators nodded. The chief heads as if comprehending.

"Yes, sir, LBJ eliminated 49 states," went on Sen. Scott. He fell into a musing silence, then asked with apparent irrelevance:

"I wonder what the salvage value is on Bobby Kennedy and Bob McNamara vice president buttons?"

Sen. John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky was joined by his aide, Jack Purcell. Purcell reported he'd phoned NASA about the pictures taken by its Ranger 7 moon shot.

"I tried to kid around with Jim Aswell, NASA's publicist," said the Cooper aide. "I said I'd learned the moon pictures showed Dick Nixon talking with a lot of weird characters. But Aswell topped me. He said:

"We don't know yet. We just sent the pictures down to the drugstore to be developed."

Sen. Jennings Randolph of West Virginia came in with Walter "Bill" Hart, editor of the Morgantown (W. Va.) Dominion-News. Sen. Randolph said he'd just received this succinct letter from a lady:

"We don't want no change."

Editor Hart inquired what reply he'd made. Randolph, trustee of two colleges, and a former dean of English, said he'd sent the only logical answer:

"You ain't gonna get none."

Charles Lowe, manager-husband of Carol Channing, joined two sapient Democratic nations, Mrs. Senator Frank Church and Mrs. Dale "Scotter" Miller, to discuss the way his lovely blonde will open the Democratic National Convention on Aug. 24.

Mr. Lowe said lyricists have an ingrained aversion to their words being parodied, but Jerry Herman overcame his to the point of rewriting his "Hello, Dolly" lyrics to "Hello, Lyndon."

Mr. Lowe also reported that his and Carol's son, Channing, is attending a half French, half English camp at Le Boule, on the Normandy coast. Bethune Church asked why.

"Half the time they speak French; half the time English," replied Mr. Lowe. "At last year's camp all Channing learned was to make a war bonnet. His mother never wears a war bonnet. But she figured if he learned to speak half French he could help us in restaurants with the menu."

"How does he like the camp?" asked Scotter Miller.

"We don't know. All he has written is about it is that the hamburgers are too small."

Across the dining room, Sen. McCarthy finished his lunch and left, with all eyes following.

"I still say," remarked Sen. Scott, "that the Atlantic City thing has narrowed down to Miss Minnesota."

The Pennsylvania Story

Office Move Criticized

By Mason Denison

HARRISBURG — There is considerably more involved than meets the eye in the Scranton Administration's projected move of the State Workmen's Insurance Fund headquarters from Harrisburg to Scranton — which should scald the gills of Pennsylvanians everywhere!

(1) — In one of the most bald (and now typical Scrantonian "wrong way") administrations by a public official, Mr. Scranton's Secretary of Administration, John Ingram, commented regarding the projected movement of the state agency:

"We handled this as we always do and always will on moving an agency, and that is to have as few people know as possible until we are ready for the final decision."

This public-be-damned-we-know-what's-best-for-you attitude too frequently has persisted in recent years among state agencies on Capitol Hill — the point being completely ignored that the state officials are in office to do the bidding of the very public they take it upon themselves to dictate to!

Mr. Ingram's statement illustrates the point succinctly: ram through a potentially adverse public interest — before the public has the chance to become aroused and force cancellation.

(2) Mr. Scranton's personal representative in the case, Mr. Ingram, had this to say as to "why" the movement of the state agency was projected:

"The move was initiated by the circumstances, by the shortage of personnel and other symptoms of overcrowding in Harrisburg. We've had a great difficulty in filling jobs in white collar skills here. People wouldn't come here to live on the salaries we pay. This can be alleviated by moving the work to where these people are."

Unbelievable!

Item — The state payroll here in Harrisburg is loaded to the scuppers with "workers;" the few vacancies that exist couldn't be filled anywhere else.

Item — As for salaries, the contention is that many a state payroll actually is overpaid — in relation to work output — but in any event the pay is regarded (by private industry) as competitive; in fact too competitive in a number of instances.

Item — As for Mr. Ingram's so-called "symptoms of overcrowding in Harrisburg" thus forcing the state agency move — private industry which must operate on a flat dollars and cents econo (non — taxpayer give-away) basis, apparently doesn't view the situation in the same light.

The other day the Pennsylvania Power and Light Company reported that 83 new industries will locate their plants in Central Eastern Pennsylvania this year!

In other words the "overcrowding" is forcing (money-wasting) state government to move — but not profit-and-loss functioning private industry!

Item — Mr. Ingram cites as one reason for the transfer of the Workmen's Insurance Fund from Capitol Hill to Scranton the contention that it would alleviate the condition where "people won't come here to live on the salaries we pay" — yet in the next breath the Governor's Office says the 135 employees now employed here will be given first option on the jobs in the new office! If they can't get 'em, where did these come from?

First For Goldwater

A year or so ago a Saylorsburg RD man started plugging hard for Sen. Barry Goldwater. Friends, relatives and just plain onlookers wondered whether the comparatively young politico was eccentric or out of his mind.

Buckingham is neither, but considers himself unique in some respect. First he was the only individual in Northeast Pennsylvania to come out wholeheartedly for Goldwater — long before Barry won the Republican nomination for the presidency in San Francisco last month.

Oh yes, Goldwater had supporters. However few were willing to put their names publicly alongside the Arizona solon.

"Now," as Buckingham puts it, "everyone is getting into the act."

Another unique feature about Buckingham is that he voted for John F. Kennedy when the late president ran against Richard Nixon in the last presidential runoff. "In this particular case I wasn't voting for the man. But I believed in the platform and the principles of the party at that time."

He was quick to point out, though, "If (the Democratic Party) has gone downhill since then."

Buckingham is a well-travelled person. He has worked in the mines, pushed union stature as a bargaining agent and performed several duties on newspapers.

For the past 11 years Buckingham has been a lecturer. For 10 of these years he has trained salesmen in the "art of the spoken word." He has lectured at leading colleges and has occupied the pulpit of churches.

Presently he is toying with the idea of opening a seminar in the Poconos on sales techniques. "Maybe if I do this it will cut down on my travel," Buckingham confided.

He likes to blend all these employments with the philosophies of Goldwater. But he hastens to add, "If this man would only follow the advice of his advisors he would be much better off."

Bill's family were staunch Republicans. They were Welsh folks who followed party line (GOP) for years. "Maybe it was our affiliation with the mines that kept us in GOP circles," he laughed.

He figures Goldwater has a good chance of upsetting President Lyndon B. Johnson. But he is worried about such intangibles as the Viet Nam War, Civil Rights issue and Goldwater and his sometimes "too quick remarks."

"Sen. Goldwater is no different than any other American. When he has something on his chest he likes to get it off. But he'll have to discipline himself in this phase of political warfare," Buckingham emphasized.

Buckingham, head of the Northeastern Pennsylvania for Goldwater organization, is playing a waiting game at the moment. He wonders about his role when the state GOP actually starts the ball rolling for Barry.

Whether his group has a separate identity in the coming election only time will tell. However, there is one thing for sure. Bill Buckingham was first on the Goldwater bandwagon no matter how you cut the cake.

Realm Of Stamps

By Ray Patton

The five-cent Shakespearean stamp will have first day sale at Stratford, Conn., August 14. This stamp will be issued in conjunction with the quadricentennial celebration of the birth of the English actor and playwright who was born in April, 1564. The more than 30 plays and numerous sonnets produced by Shakespeare are regarded as imperishable in every country in the world.

Born at Stratford-on-Avon, he went to London in the 1590's and returned to Stratford after many productive years. He lived in Stratford until his death in 1616.

The five cent commemorative issue for the Mayo Brothers will have first day sale September 11, at Rochester, Minn.

The Mayo Brothers founded the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., were a synonym for "Hope" to sufferers from serious ailments. Their medical skill and operating techniques made Rochester a mecca for patients from all over the world. The Mayo's donation of one and a half million dollars established the Mayo Foundation for medical education and research in 1914. Their work and ideals are also affiliated with the University of Minnesota. Both brothers died in 1939.

The Allen-Scott Report

Khanh Opposition

WASHINGTON — It is touch-and-go how long Premier Nguyen Khanh can hold onto the reins he wrested from a clique of other generals in January of this year.

The chunky 37-year-old Viet Nam "strong-man" is almost as sorely beset by menacing plots and threats in his own camp as by the Communist Viet Cong's intensifying terrorism and ambushes.

It's a grim toss-up which will "get" him first.

For weeks, both Saigon and Washington have buzzed with rumors and reports of a new coup.

In Viet Nam, it has long been no secret that high-placed military officers and civilian leaders are hostile to Khanh and want to get rid of him — each for their own reason.

The former ruling generals whom Khanh ousted have never become reconciled to him. General Duong Van ("Big") Minh, who led the coup that overthrew the late President Diem and his powerful brother Ngo Dinh Nhu and in turn was unhorsed by Khanh, was given an imposing but innocuous military post, and other members of his faction were similarly sidelined and dispersed. They are restively biding their time for a comeback.

The civilian leaders are demanding greater authority and control. They contend that while the military are undeniably vital in combatting the Viet Cong aggressors, at the same time they lack either comprehension of or interest in the equally crucial political and economic aspects of this life-and-death struggle.

To the critical civilians, the answer is a civilian regime instead of what they term a "military dictatorship."

Dear Abby

She's Got Nerve

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have a neighbor who is the nerviest person I've ever known, but I hate to hurt her. She walks into my house without knocking and has scared me out of my wits so many times it's not even funny. She opens my refrigerator to see what's there. She lifts the lids off my pots to find out what I am cooking. She even adds water if she thinks it needs it. If a letter happens to be laying around, she'll read it. She has even picked up my husband's check stubs and studied them. I could go on and on. Don't tell me to keep my doors locked. With children it's hard. I have never taken such liberties in her house. Is there some nice way I can put a stop to this? I wouldn't hurt her feelings for the world.

DEVOTED READER

DEAR READER: There is no "nice" way to tell a snoop that she's a snoop. Keep all personal mail and check stubs out of sight. And when she adds water to your soup count to ten. But don't complain of HER nerve if YOU haven't the nerve to tell her SHE'S nervy!

DEAR ABBY: How does a 20-year-old girl who has just announced her engagement with intentions to get married next summer tell her parents that she has to get married as soon as possible?

THE GIRL

DEAR GIRL: In plain English. And fast.

DEAR ABBY: Where we live the houses are very close together. Lately I have seen a boy, who can't be more than nine years old, hanging out of the bathroom window, smoking. I see him almost every day. He is obviously smoking on the Q.T., and blowing the smoke outside. I know his mother just to say "hello" to. Do you think the next time I see her, I should tell her what her son is up to?

A NEIGHBOR

DEAR NEIGHBOR: Put yourself in her shoes. If YOU had a child that age, doing what hers was doing, wouldn't you want to be told?

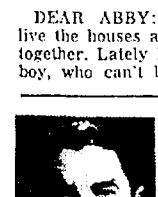

DEAR ABBY: I appreciated your column on how much satisfaction some of your readers got from giving away the clothing of their loved ones after they had passed away. When my mother died, I couldn't bear to give her clothes away, so I wrapped them in paper and packed them in boxes. Thirty years later, upon opening the boxes, everything was moth-eaten and yellow with age. How much better it would have been for her lovely clothes to have been worn out by some friend!

MARGARET

CONFIDENTIAL TO DAVID: Don't give up. It's usually the last key in the bunch that opens the door.

Speaking Of Your Health:

Doctor, I'd Like To Know

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I am 16 years old and interested in science. I would like to be a doctor. How long does it take to become a doctor?

John R., Kansas

Dear John: It takes a long time to become a doctor. It takes many years of intensive training before any one man can be trusted with the lives of others. The demands are exhausting, but the rewards are infinite.

First, you must attend three or four years of college, during which time diligent studies and good grades are essential.

Then four years of concentrated study at a medical school earns the M.D. degree.

At this point you will already be a doctor, having completed your formal training. But two years of hospital internship following medical school is a very valuable supplement to your education and provides important and useful experience which will make you better equipped to go out into general practice.

Specialization in a specific field requires a number of additional years of hospital training.

It does seem like a long time, John. But the entire learning period is filled with personal gratification. And, finally, when the sick and the helpless turn to you for aid and solace, you will know the ultimate reward — the immeasurable joy — of serving your fellow man in the practice of medicine.

One of my children was born with a heart murmur.

We have been assured that it is absolutely not serious. Should we limit his activities?

Mr. E. G. S., Colorado

Dear Mr. S.: When the condition has been completely evaluated and you have been assured that the murmur does not represent organic disease, you would be doing your child a great injustice by treating him as a frail invalid. He is not.

The greatest contribution you can make to your child is to encourage all normal activity, rather than limit it.

Many football linemen have played their way through college with these unimportant, functional murmurs.

Focusing attention on this condition and attaching undue significance to it by being overprotective and solicitous can make an emotional cripple of a perfectly healthy child.

While Dr. Coleman cannot undertake to answer individual letters, he will use readers' questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Coleman in care of this newspaper.

When many need so much and soon.
The billions spent to reach the moon
Could well be spent on medicine.
Besides, we have no folks up there.

Stories Behind Words

by William S. Penfield

Coconut

Several centuries ago Portuguese sailors became acquainted with the fruit, or nuts, of a particular palm tree.

The nuts grow in clusters at the top of the trees, which are from 60 to 100 feet in height. When they are ripe, the nuts fall to the ground.

After the outer rind or husk is removed, the oval-shaped nut measures from three to eight inches in length.

At one end of the nut are three black scars. The Portuguese sailors noticed that the arrangement of these scars suggested a grinning face. In Portuguese the word "coco" meant a grinning face, therefore, the sailors called the nuts "coconuts."

State Approves Planning Funds

STROUDSBURG — State approval of the Monroe County application for federal matching funds to help pay the cost of planning survey has been granted. Due to the illness of chairman

Eastburg Hires Two Policemen

EAST STROUDSBURG — Arthur S. Gilliland, Jr. and William W. Campbell were appointed last night to vacancies on the East Stroudsburg Borough police force at a minimum starting salary of $3,800 per year.

The naming of Gilliland and Campbell at a council meeting in the municipal building brought the under-manned borough police department to eight. Council also approved an option to purchase 1.32 acres of land in the S. Courtland St. urban renewal project for the U.S. Post Office Dept.

King Beers, executive director of the Redevelopment Authority of Monroe County, said the option gives the department the right to buy the land at 50 cents a square foot.

Beers also said he has informed Acme Markets of the price the authority is asking. Both the department and Acme are scheduled to build new buildings in the project.

Council also approved the authority's intention of selling land in the Lincoln Ave. urban renewal project to three East Stroudsburg businesses.

Beers showed council three partially executed disposition documents from Pat and Red's Tire Service—who are planning to build a Goodyear Tire Service Center, R. C. Cramer Lumber Co., scheduled to erect a 25,000 square foot shell building to accommodate light industry, and to Jules Ginesburg, who wants to expand his Redmond Finishing Co., located within the boundaries of the project.

Beers said he will now take the documents to Philadelphia for approval by the federal government. Beers termed "typical politics," a recent plea by Sen. Joseph Clark for the U. S. Army Engineers to turn over the state federal credits earned for the inter-borough flood control project.

He told council if East Stroudsburg did not get the flood control credits the urban renewal program in the borough would be "out of business."

He said State Rep. Van D. Yetter Jr. of Marshalls Creek recently called Sen. Clark's office and straightened the matter out. During the discussion that preceded naming the two new policemen, Councilman Pearly Hunt was sharply critical of the police department.

Hunt said Patrolman Harry Lanahan was permitting illegal parking across the street from Howard's Coffee Shop, at 381 N. Courtland St. He asked Mayor Thomas Kistler why police were not enforcing "No Parking" in that area.

Gap Mayor Lauded For '75th' Work

DELAWARE WATER GAP — Council president Philip Farber and members of council congratulated Mayor Arthur B. Lehr on "the fine job he had done during the two days of the 75th anniversary celebration of Delaware Water Gap."

Mayor Lehr said "A lot of praise was given to me, but I could not have done it without the wonderful help I had from the talented people of the borough."

In other action, Harry F. Lee, borough solicitor, was instructed to write E. B. Chura of the Bell Telephone Co. and ask him to attend the next meeting of the council.

At the meeting Chura will be asked to explain why the borough residents must continue to pay toll charges on calls to nearby cities when Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg do not have to pay the charges.

Chura Accepts In reply to the invitation Chura said he will gladly attend the meeting and explain the reason behind the charges.

Also, Mrs. J. H. LaBar, borough secretary, prepared a ballot for the council to vote on at the September meeting. The ballot pertains to the selection of five members to represent the borough's planning commission.

Restricted Water Use The Water Committee of borough council, recommended a ban be placed on the outside use of water. It was explained that residents may use water outside the home daily only during the hours of 6 and 9 p.m.

The committee reminded citizens that they are not out of water, but they are trying to conserve the present water supply because it has not rained for a long time.

John Mills, Vance Megargel, president over the meeting. The commission voted approval of the East Stroudsburg redevelopment project. Members explained the vote was a courtesy measure, since the group lacks jurisdiction.

Donald DeOtte will represent the planners at a federally-sponsored meeting in Scranton, part of a nationwide survey of county recreational facilities. Mrs. Grace Palmer tentatively plans to attend from the commission as well.

The planning group has inserted an advertisement for a county planner in the American Society of Planning Officials Journal, the meeting was informed.

The membership also voted to ask R. M. Hoot, executive director of the county Chamber of Commerce, to refer complaints, received by his office, of improper activity to the commission on subdivision legislation.

Survey Ends Friday The visitation committee of the planning organization will finish its survey of the county with a visit to the western Poconos on Friday. Following the trip, the subdivision committee will meet to discuss possible legislation based on data gathered.

Stroudsburg Post Office To Be Improved

STROUDSBURG — U. S. Congressman Fred B. Rooney said yesterday that plans for a $397,000 addition and modernization at the Stroudsburg Post Office are well underway.

Rooney, representative from the 15th district, gave a timetable for work on the expansion of facilities. The Post Office Department approved an overall expansion plan on May 12, and has obligated money for the construction.

Following a federal survey by the General Services Administration which will take a year, architectural design approval can be given. Design is expected to be completed by Sept. 1965. A construction contract may possibly be signed by Dec. 1965.

Construction is expected to take 11 months, and the facility should be opened for use in the fall of 1966, according to the tentative schedule.

Workroom Space Rooney said plans cover the construction of 4,830 square feet of workroom, the same amount of basement, a 1,200 square foot parking and maneuvering space by 13,315 square feet. An extension to the driveway will also be built.

Modernization will include air-conditioning, painting, improved lighting, a new counter line, a new vault, administrative offices and improvements to the heating system, he said.

An official at the Stroudsburg post office said that space for the construction will be secured by purchasing a double house at 719-721 Ann St.

Slate Picnic

PEN ARGYL — The Richmond Lions Club announced yesterday that Lester Reimer will be in charge of reservations for the family picnic to be held at Weona Park in Pen Argyl Aug. 18 at 7:30 p.m.

In Monroe County, according to the report, three permits were issued at Mt. Pocono for construction totalling $16,250, including one $15,000 residence.

Nearly Northampton figures show one permit in Bangor for $20,000, seven from Roseto for $35,000 total, and one Wind Gap permit for a $23,560 house.

Alford, in Pike County, reported two permits issued for $6,100 in construction. Honesdale, Wayne County city, had the largest number of permits for the area, with four covering $13,000 in building costs.

Tobyhanna Village Goes For $430,125

WASHINGTON, D. C. — A Stroudsburg attorney and a Blakeslee realtor, with a high offer of $430,125, were the unofficial successful bidders yesterday for the 200-unit Tobyhanna Village complex in Tobyhanna.

The Federal Housing Administration said Atty. Edwin Krawitz of Stroudsburg, and Aubrey Price, of Blakeslee, submitted the highest qualified bid for the village which the FHA had taken over because of a mortgage default.

T. B. S. Denham, deputy assistant commissioner for property disposition for the FHA, said, "The bid is being considered and it is quite likely that our committee will act favorably on the bid tomorrow. This will result in a contract to purchase within 60 days."

Qualification The FHA qualification for bidding on the apartments was $25,000 minimum price with the FHA willing to finance a $900,000 first mortgage on the property.

Denham said a bid of $525,000 was disqualified because it called for a mortgage "far in excess of the $400,000 required by the FHA."

S. A. Berger, of Philadelphia, submitted the $525,000 bid along with one for $426,000. The only other bidder for the property was Melvin E. Solomon, of East Stroudsburg, RD 3, who entered a bid of $424,500.

Rooney, representative from the 15th district, gave a timetable for work on the expansion of facilities. The Post Office Department approved an overall expansion plan on May 12, and has obligated money for the construction.

Following a federal survey by the General Services Administration which will take a year, architectural design approval can be given. Design is expected to be completed by Sept. 1965. A construction contract may possibly be signed by Dec. 1965.

Construction is expected to take 11 months, and the facility should be opened for use in the fall of 1966, according to the tentative schedule.

Workroom Space Rooney said plans cover the construction of 4,830 square feet of workroom, the same amount of basement, a 1,200 square foot parking and maneuvering space by 13,315 square feet. An extension to the driveway will also be built.

Modernization will include air-conditioning, painting, improved lighting, a new counter line, a new vault, administrative offices and improvements to the heating system, he said.

An official at the Stroudsburg post office said that space for the construction will be secured by purchasing a double house at 719-721 Ann St.

RATES REDUCED AGAIN FOR ELECTRIC HOME HEATING AND ALL-ELECTRIC LIVING!

In the past seven years, most other living costs have gone up... but not electricity! Electric rates for home heating and all-electric living continue to come down! In fact, there have been three big rate reductions since 1958, amounting to an average of 23.5%!

This present reduction saves electric home heating customers about the equivalent of one month's budget bill. As far as you are concerned, this means that it's now easier and more practical than ever to give your family all the advantages of electric heat and all-electric living. There's never been a better time to make the change to truly modern living, by going all-electric.

Many of your friends and neighbors are already getting the benefit of this new lower rate. Why not join them? Call your nearest Metropolitan Edison Company office to find out how little electric heat will cost for your home.

The Volkswagen is the one in black.

These cars look alike to a Volkswagen mechanic. They have the same engine, the same transmission, and the same chassis.

But the one on the bottom got mixed up with an Italian who thought the Volkswagen would make a sexy little runabout: Ghia of Turin.

The car's the VW Karmann Ghia. Its special body takes so much hand work that Volkswagen forms it out to one of Europe's greatest custom coach-works, Karmann of Osnabrück. Every seam is welded, ground down, filed and sanded by hand. It's been mistaken for everything from a Ferrari to a Lancia!

Yet VW parts are all you need. You get the VW's legendary mileage. VW's air-cooled engine. And the famous Volkswagen traction in snow and sand.

Along with a gee-gaw or two. A defroster for the back window. Acoustical soundproofing. Adjustable bucket seats.

The price is quite a coup for a coupe like this. Hardtop $2,295.00.* Convertible, $2,495.00.*

Just Between Us —

Life is not really uneventful in the Poconos. It just seems that way in contrast to the hectic personal weekends. Actually the community itself is in for some pretty hectic doings between now and the end of the month.

Among the major events vying for public support are the Antique Show for the General Hospital this week; the Philadelphia Orchestra concert next Tuesday and Wednesday; the Craftsman's Fair all week; and Tony Lema on Friday.

This, of course is in addition to the Fire Co. Carnivals, the annual concert of the Methodist Church, the church school picnics, and the family reunions, ending up with the West End Fair.

Involved in all this are not only the expected spectators and audiences but also all the volunteers who are trying to make the projects "go." These are busy days in the Poconos. But the summer residents who have the idea that everything comes to an abrupt halt after they go home on Labor Day couldn't be more wrong.

The busiest months of the entire year are October, December and May and if there is a lull it comes in March when everybody is so worn out battling snow, colds and organizational fatigue that they either hibernate or go to Florida.

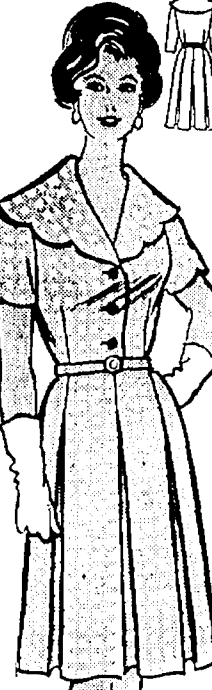

Or September when all the activity goes underground in a great mobilization of project teams, committees, and year books in preparation for the winter assault on the time, talent, and pocketbooks of the members for the worthy projects needing that help.

August used to be a time for relaxation and storing up energy for the demands ahead. But no more. It may be vacation time for a lot of people but for the people in the Poconos it's the time they work hard to reap the benefits of having so many people spending their vacation right here.

CLAMBAKE IS PERFECT for cool mountain nights far from the beautiful sea. Just cook the fresh corn, chicken, clams and other ingredients in clam steamer, real or improvised.

Fresh Corn Time Right Time For Clambakes, Stew Nights

By Linda Pipher
Daily Record Home Economist
Stroudsburg — Bless the Indians for giving us corn! The story goes that the first immigrants to our country who were given ears of corn to eat chopped up and down the rows and then said, "Please put some more beans on this stick!"

We've been eating corn ever since, but chances are that our sweet corn today has a better flavor than that the Indians raised. It seems such a short season that we can get this favorite of vegetables, that we should cook all we can with it!

Looking for something different to make for a gathering of friends? And want to have fun doing it? How about a clam-bake? It's perfect for the cooler weather that we're now having, and corn and clams taste so good when cooked together.

If you don't have a clam steamer, a large can with a tight-fitting cover may be used. Or a new galvanized garbage can is ideal, or even an old-fashioned tin can that holds about 5 gallons. Place a layer of washed rocks or a wire rack in the bottom, pour in water and put in a layer of wet spinach. Continue as per directions in this recipe:

- Clam Bake
- 3 pints water
  - 2 packages (10 oz. each) fresh spinach
  - 2 ready-to-cook broiler chickens
  - Salt
  - ground black pepper
  - 7 medium or 14 small potatoes
  - 6 ears fresh corn
  - 4 1/2 dozen small clams
  - 6 African rock lobster tails
  - Melted butter
- A clam steamer consists of 2 parts, bottom and top. In the bottom part pour in 3 pints of water. Place the upper section of the steamer on top, the bottom of which is perforated. Wet the spinach and cover the bottom of the upper section with half of it. Cut chickens into quarters. Sprinkle with salt and ground black pepper. Tie each quarter in a square of cheesecloth. Place on top of spinach. Wash potatoes and arrange over chicken, along with peeled onions. Remove outer husks of corn. Pull back the inner husks and remove silks, keeping the husks intact.

- 2 tablespoons salt
  - 1/2 teaspoon whole black pepper
  - 1 teaspoon crushed red pepper (optional)
  - 1 cup diced potatoes
  - 1 cup fresh snap beans
  - 1 1/2 cups chopped onions
  - 1 cup fresh green peas
  - 2 cups fresh lima beans
  - 2 cups fresh corn, cut off the cob
  - 2 1/2 quarts diced fresh tomatoes
  - 1 teaspoon ground black pepper
  - one-third cup butter or margarine
- Cut up chicken and place in a 7 quart kettle. Add the next 6 ingredients. Cover and cook slowly 3 hours or until the meat falls off the bones. Remove bones and discard. Cut meat into cubes and return to the stock. Add the vegetables and simmer (do not boil) 1 hour or until vegetables are very tender, stirring frequently to prevent scorching. Add black pepper and butter or margarine. Serve hot as a main dish. Freeze left-over stew for future use.

Remember, too, that casseroles freeze well. At this time of the year, if you double your recipe and fill an extra casserole, you'll have a "free dinner" some night when it's hot and you don't want to cook. When you put a frozen casserole in the oven, bake it for an hour-and-a-half at 350 degrees; it takes this long to be heated through.

If you do not have freezer to oven dishes, line the casserole first with foil, then lift out the casserole when frozen and store in a plastic bag. Pop it back into the same dish when ready to cook it. This saves freezer space, too.

Season the liquid in bottom of the steamer with a little salt and ground black pepper. Serve as clam broth. Always have plenty of melted butter on hand to serve with each of the foods. Yields 6 servings.

Another favorite for this time of the year is Brunswick Stew. My mother tells me that this was an old fashioned hunter's stew made when the hunters used to throw anything in the pot that they killed that day. But today we make it with chicken, and at this time of the year, so that all fresh vegetables can be used. It freezes well, too, so make plenty.

Brunswick Stew

- 3 to 4 pound chicken
- 1 1/2 pounds skin of beef
- 1 pound pork spareribs
- 2 quarts cold water

Retirement Leaves Time For Work

Tobyhanna — With almost 28 years of accredited government service, George J. Rosenberg of Tobyhanna, will retire from the Tobyhanna Army Depot on Aug. 1.

Hundreds of messages have poured in from friends and neighbors in the community in which he has taken such an active part.

Rosenberg enlisted in the New York National Guard as soon as he became of age. His next enlistment was in the United States Marine Corps where he served in France with the American Expeditionary Forces during the First World War.

His retirement status should leave him plenty to do. He is active in veteran work and in politics. He spends considerable time teaching first aid and is captain of the Ambulance Squad of the Coolbaugh Fire Co. at Tobyhanna. He is also an active member of the fire company and rarely misses a fire.

A member of the Mobile Unit of the American Red Cross at Scranton, he is on the call around the clock during emergencies.

A deeply religious man, he rarely misses services at the Madison Ave. Temple in Scranton, where he served on many committees.

To prove the point that age doesn't need to slow a man down, "Rosie" as he is known to his friends has recently taken up square dancing.

Friends Honor Miss Vogler; To Wed In Wash.

East Stroudsburg — Miss Mary Ann Vogler who left for Seattle, Wash., on July 31 to be married to Gary Trock who is stationed there with the U.S. Army was the guest of honor at a surprise bridal shower before she left.

The party was held at the home of Mrs. Anna Marie Hine-line with Mrs. Mollie Long as co-hostess.

Wedding bells and streamers were used as decorations with a three-tier wedding cake surrounded by a miniature bride and bridegroom as a centerpiece.

Attending were Mrs. Margaret Vogler, Mrs. Caroline Vogler, Mrs. Paul Vogler, Mrs. Henrietta Trock, Mrs. Arlene Martin, Mrs. Theresa Weber, Miss Shirley Weber, Mrs. Susan Schupp, Miss Susan Morris, Mrs. Kathryn Morris, Mrs. Dorothy Repsher, Mrs. Gary Freeman, Mrs. Edna Gordon, Mrs. Pearl Bryner, Mrs. Molly Long and Mrs. Anna Hine-line.

Also sending gifts were Mrs. Flora Vogler, Mrs. Mano Miller, Mrs. Margaret Eschenbach, Miss Mary Eschenbach and Mrs. Hilda Bachelder.

Barbecue To Benefit Church School Trip

Craigs Meadow — The Craigs Meadow Lutheran Sunday School is sponsoring a chicken barbecue to be held at the Yeter Farm near Marshalls Creek on Saturday, Aug. 15 with serving from 4 to 7:30. In case of rain the supper will be served in the church.

The menu will include chicken, corn on the cob, baked beans, potato salad, tossed salad, rolls, beverage, ice cream and cake with each ticket entitling the holder to as much as he can eat. There are special prices for children under 12.

The proceeds of the dinner will be used to take the children of the Sunday School on a trip to the New York World's Fair. The public is invited.

Tickets may be reserved by calling Mrs. Raymond LaBar or Mrs. Samuel Little.

Concert To Benefit Church Educational Bldg. Fund

Swiftwater — The Pocono Mountain Joint High School auditorium in Swiftwater will be the scene of the seventh annual summer concert sponsored by the Mt. Pocono Methodist Church.

The Aug. 29 event will benefit the church's educational building fund, concert committee chairman Neal D. Coberly said.

Featured will be Joseph Engelhardt, violinist, formerly musical director of Pocono Manor Inn and now concertmaster of the St. Petersburg (Fla.) Philharmonic; Mitchell Andres, pianist, of the faculty of the Juillard School of Music, and Jack Irwin, co-producer at Cherry Lane Playhouse, now appearing in "Tovarich" with Ginger Rogers.

Coberly said the church has 100 children in its Sunday school, in addition to adult and youth classes.

Donations, sent to Lila Merwin at the church, are in three classes, Coberly explained. Individual sponsorships are $3 per person, or $5 a family. Businesses may become sponsors with a $10 donation, while special gifts may reach $100 or more.

Each $1 donated entitles the giver to one ticket to the 8:30 p. m. concert, the chairman said.

Arrangements From Garden Club For Show

East Stroudsburg — Members of the Monroe County Garden Club are donating flower arrangements to brighten the 20th Anniversary Antique Show and Sale which opens Thursday in the East Stroudsburg State College Gymnasium.

They have been asked to bring the arrangements to the gym either Wednesday night or Thursday before opening time at 11 a. m. It is suggested that they use containers of small value, such as old jugs, baskets or other containers, marked on the bottom with a name tape.

The containers may be collected on Saturday after 4 p. m. or on Sunday at the home of Mrs. John Ferrellee, 274 Brac-side Ave., East Stroudsburg.

The General Hospital Auxiliary, sponsors of the Antique Show for the benefit of the hospital, has expressed appreciation to the Garden Club for the gift of their gardens, time and talent.

Lutherans Combine For Picnic Sunday

East Stroudsburg — A combined parish picnic will be held by Grace Lutheran Church, East Stroudsburg, and St. John's Lutheran Church, Stroudsburg, on Sunday afternoon at the East Stroudsburg Park.

A buffet style picnic supper will be served at 5 o'clock. Coffee and ice cream will be provided. Each family is asked to bring a covered dish for the supper.

The superintendents of respective church schools and supporting committees have arranged a repertoire of games for all age groups. Families are asked to come early in the afternoon to enjoy the fellowship.

The generous and kindly person who surprised me so completely with the little green lamp I have admired so much since its arrival in our store, cannot possibly have any idea how very much the gift meant to me last Sunday evening and early Monday morning. The lamp (an import from Western Germany) is a reproduction of an early American style, and may be used in several ways: with top lighted, with base lighted, or with both aglow at the same time.

Late Sunday evening, my daughter, who had been feeling rather badly for a day or so, became quite ill, and through the hours when she rolled and tossed, I lay upon my bed, staying awake by watching the soothing green night light. It was wondrously comforting. At 3 o'clock, when it was necessary to call a cab and scurry to the hospital with her, the little lamp was still keeping that was still reaching out to me when I returned a few hours later alone.

Years ago, I had another lamp with a base that could be turned on dimly at night... but it is broken now, and I had forgotten how warm, protected, and secure a small beam of light can make one feel when one is frightened, or worried, or anxious. The world can never have enough light to dispel all the shadows, can it? I am reminded of the song that admonishes us all to light "just one little candle"... and of that other admonition not to hide one's light under a bushel, but to let it shine before others. Strange, but on Sunday night my little lamp was many things... the light of friendship, the glow of faith, the warmth of kindly affection. And all of these things were needed greatly, and deeply appreciated.

Everyone is talking about Sunday Weckoff's wedding of Saturday, and how beautiful she looked coming down the aisle, escorted by her father, our stroudsbu- dent. Not only was the church (Barnet, East Stroudsburg) street was lined with crowds of men, women and children waiting to glimpse the bride party. There were obviously visitors to this area, and I received a woman comment, "I love brides. I don't care how long I have to hang around to see one—or if I have them or not." To which her husband replied, "Okay, or stand... but I'm leaving. My feet hurt." He wandered off, but his wife remained, without even batting an eye. Wonder if they ever got together again? Or when... Edna Brockman of our Wyckoff Travel Bureau tells me she just received two more reservations by mail for our store's three-day bus trip to Cooper and Cooperstown on August 23rd, 24th, and 25th. This brings the total to 13, I believe, with others still weighing their plans. Cooperstown is a village of great museums, including the Baseball Hall of Fame. In addition, it is a charming and cordial community of many stately homes and much scenic grandeur. If you've never been there, this excursion is an excellent opportunity to make the trip... Helen Diamond asks that I advise you her Cosmetic department is once again stocking Richard Hudnut's Taperette, a comb with razor blade insert, that enables even the amateur to trim, taper, or shorten the hair with ease. Save family dollars by investing in this handy, easily manipulated gadget, priced at 1.50 complete with three blades. Complete directions teach you how to use the Taperette... ## Learn New Tricks

DEAR CY:

Our company was bought out by a larger corporation and the new management is trying to upset everything. I told one of their so-called "experts" who came snooping around yesterday, "We've done it this way for 22 years since I've been working here and the system works."

He said, "Humph," and walked away. Tell your readers, Cy, these new business school graduates and big money men can't stand up to experience.

HANK

DEAR HANK:

When did "Humph" begin meaning agreement? It could mean a great deal of things, sheet meaning. Get punched and get out. If your company has done something for 22 years the same way, an expert knows the method is probably very antiquated. These are high velocity times, Hank.

Unless you change with them, someone is going to make a change out of you. Changes are needed to keep businesses alive. In the past, company battled company.

Now, entire industries also face the threatened onslaught of technical obsolescence, the public's skittish tastes, and the speed with which competitive products can be marketed.

You already have experience in being the underdog in a merger. Sit up and do some quick-change tricks for your new master.

DEAR CY:

I am being replaced, not through automation, but because of a weight problem. I can no longer stand on my feet for eight hours at my regular job. I was put on lay-off last week until such time as I am able to shed enough extra pounds and return to my usual work.

I recall hearing about a diet specialist who sells special weight reducing diets. Can you give me her name?

MRS. K. G.

DEAR MRS. K. G.:

You are probably referring to Ruth Pfahler of Decatur, Illinois, who has advertised diets for some years. Miss Pfahler in her literature, "We advise you to see your doctor before starting any diet." She snatched the words right out of my mouth.

What in the world is the "Green River Ordinance"? It has something to do with selling door-to-door and I understand may stop my son from soliciting in certain areas. And just when we were so happy he had a good summer job which could give him money

CY

DEAR MRS. THIELE:

The Green River ordinance gained its fame from Green River, Wyoming. Generally, it declares the practice of contacting private residences is punishable as a nuisance, unless invitation from the occupant is obtained in advance.

Field Enterprises, publishers of World Book and other educational materials, recently obtained a temporary injunction against the village of Wheeling, Illinois, which is trying to ban house - to - house solicitations.

An attorney for Field Enterprises Educational Corporation, comments, "we feel such an ordinance violates citizen's basic constitutional rights and is certainly unwarranted interference with free enterprise."

At a time in history, when every thinking man and woman is interested in increasing employment opportunities, I am opposed to the needless destruction of jobs.

First Shots Of World War I Fired 50 Years Ago

By Richard Spong
Editorial Research Reports
WASHINGTON — The first shots of World War I were fired just 50 years ago, on August 4, 1914. (Skirmishes had begun a week earlier on the Austro-Hungary-Serbian border.)

The morning was bright and clear and luminous as the eight lance - bearing German cavalrymen trotted up to a French sentry post near Belfort. A French corporal challenged.

The German patrol leader fired his pistol three times. The French corporal fired three rifle shots. The German dropped from his horse. The Frenchman fell dead. The first world war had begun.

The pretext was the assassination of Archduke Franz Ferdinand of Austria-Este, the heir apparent to the throne of the Hapsburg Empire, more than a month before.

But war would have come without the assassination. Europe in the summer of 1914 was drunk with militarism.

The German was plan had been drawn up years earlier by Graf Alfred von Schlieffen, chief of the German general staff from 1891 to 1906.

"To obtain its object," Capt. B. H. Liddle Hart records, "Schlieffen's plan concentrated the mass of the German forces of the right wing for a gigantic wheel and designedly took risks by reducing the left wing, facing the French frontier, to the slenderest possible size."

Belgium and Holland were to be invaded, and the huge right wing of German might was to sweep around Paris and encircle and crush the French army from the rear.

Schlieffen's plan was tampered with by Gen. Helmuth von Moltke, his successor, who wasted troops in a foolish counteroffensive in Lorraine. The Germans eventually were to be stopped in the four-day battle at the Marne, having threatened Paris but never having reached the French capital.

A German army of 2 million men confronted a French army of 1.3 million men on that August day 50 years ago.

The German army was essentially a civilian reserve one structured by a cadre of hard, brilliant career officers and non-coms. The French had less faith in their reserves, trusting to their long-service professionals.

The Invasion of Belgium brought in the British, with an initial expeditionary force of 160,000 men. The war eventually spread to 28 countries of six continents.

Servicemen's Corner

Nine area servicemen are in the news at points around the globe.

Douglas Metzgar

Midshipman First Class Douglas P. Metzgar, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl W. Metzgar of 219 Washington St., East Stroudsburg, recently completed his six week Midshipman training cruise aboard the oiler, USS Salamone, deployed in the Mediterranean.

While aboard, he performed junior officer duties, putting into actual use many of the techniques he has learned in the classroom during his past three years at the Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md.

Upon graduation next June from the Naval Academy, Metzgar will be commissioned an Ensign.

Stanley Schane

Stanley R. Schane, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanford T. Schane of 213 Laurel Dr., Tobyhanna, has begun basic training at the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill.

The nine-week training includes naval orientation, history and organization, seamanship, ordnance and gunnery, military drill, first aid and survival.

R. C. Nicholas

R. C. Nicholas, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Nicholas of Tobyhanna, also has begun basic training at the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill.

Jacob Murphy

Jacob E. Murphy, fireman, USCG, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Murphy of Pocomo Lake, is a crewmember on the Coast Guard Cutter Westwind on patrol in the Arctic.

Westwind, an icebreaker, is helping other ships in resupplying strategic military bases in Greenland, Iceland, and Labrador.

Several crewmembers were initiated into the realm of "Polar Bears," personnel who have crossed the Arctic Circle, in ceremonies at Sondre Stromfjord, Greenland.

John Taylor

John F. Taylor, commissaryman third class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Taylor, of 309 Colbert St., Stroudsburg, was recently promoted aboard the destroyer tender USS Yosemite, operating out of Newport News, Va.

The promotion was based on his time in service and rate, military appearance, performance of duties and his making a passing grade on the Navy-wide competitive test for promotion.

Yosemite provides supply and repair services to destroyers in the Newport, R.I., area.

Martin McLain

Martin T. McLain, whose wife, Barbara, and parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. McLain, live in Newfoundland, received a reserve commission as an Army second lieutenant at Indiantown Gap Military Reservation, Annapolis, Pa., recently.

McLain received the commission upon completion of six weeks of advanced Reserve Officer Training Corps summer camp training.

McLain is a 1959 graduate of Green - Dreher-Stedding High School and is a 1961 graduate of Drexel Institute of Technology, Philadelphia.

Glenway Dailey

Glenway R. Dailey, parachute rigger third class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Grover L. Dailey of Prospect St., Tobyhanna, participated in an operation called "Exercise Bird

Company A Of E-Burg 'Excellent'

DOG" of the coast of California with Fighter Squadron 21. The operation, held July 10 to 17 under simulated battle conditions, is designed to test the Pacific Fleet's combat readiness in strike, anti-aircraft and anti-submarine missions.

Gerald Cramer

Gerald A. Cramer, 20, son of Mrs. Cella Schroeder, 119 Park Ave., Stroudsburg, was promoted to specialist four recently in Germany where he is serving with the 261st Engineer Company.

Specialist Cramer, a mechanic, entered the Army in Aug. 1961 and arrived overseas the following January.

He attended Stroudsburg High School.

Howard Evans

Howard D. Evans, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Evans of Rt. 1, Saylorsburg, is undergoing two weeks active duty recruit training at the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill.

He is studying naval history and customs, ordnance, gunnery, seamanship, damage control, first aid, swimming and survival, and sentry duty. A vigorous physical fitness program consisting of calisthenics and drill round out the training.

Upon completion of the training he will return to his local reserve unit for regular training sessions.

STROUDSBURG — Company A, 6th Tank Battalion, 68th Armor, an local Army Reserve unit, has received an "excellent" rating for two weeks active duty training at Camp Pickett, Va.

Company A meets at the Stroudsburg U.S. Army Reserve Center, 735 Bank Alley, Stroudsburg, and is commanded by Captain Eugene P. Doyle of Scranton.

Regular Army officers who observed the entire unit daily gave them an overall rating of 91.13 out of a possible score of 100.

Company A is part of Pennsylvania's largest Army Reserve unit, the 157th Infantry Brigade.

Men of the 157th draw a day's pay for each meeting they attend and can qualify for promotion and retirement benefits. The company's executive officer, 1st Lt. Lyle A. Dixon of East Stroudsburg, RD 3.

Last Visit Today For X-Ray Unit

STROUDSBURG — Last visit of the mobile x-ray unit sponsored by the Monroe County Tuberculosis and Health Society for 1964 will take place today at the Inn, Buck Hill Falls, from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.

Yesterday the unit x-rayed 135 persons at Shawnee Inn and 227 at Bailey's Gas Station in Echo Lake. Total x-rayed so far this year is 1270.

Three Depot Soldiers Get Army Commendation Medals

TOBYHANNA — The Army Commendation Medal, one of Nation's highest decorations, have been presented to three soldiers at the Tobyhanna Army Depot.

The servicemen, who earned their medals for recent service

Delinquent Tax Collector Named

WIND GAP — Mrs. Ethel Male was appointed delinquent tax collector by Wind Gap Borough Council Monday night. Mrs. Male also is the borough's tax collector.

Bills amounting to $4,920.64 were approved and receipts of $5,305.19 reported.

The reports of Mayor Pontrelli and Chief of Police Reinhardt were accepted.

It was announced the borough's new equipment building will be completed next week.

Reeders Fire Extinguished

REEDERS — Carl Price, Jackson Twp. fire chief reported yesterday that damage to a summer cottage at Trout Lake near Reeders was slight.

Firemen responded to the alarm at 8:45 p.m. Monday when the porch of the cottage caught fire. No action was required of firefighters. Firemen said a barbecue grill overturned and ignited the porch. David Karpe owned the cottage.

Portland Approves 2 Ordinances

PORTLAND — Portland Borough Council Monday night awarded a contract to James W. Fisher of Mt. Bethel, RD 1, for installing blacktop shoulders on the west side of Delaware Ave., from First Street to the borough line.

Fisher's low bid was $1,666.30.

In other business council approved two ordinances.

The first ordinance regulates weeds and prohibits obstruction of public ways by hedges, trees, bushes or brush.

The second ordinance is an amendment to Ordinance 133 — planning commission ordinance. The amendment adds a zoning provision which allows the planning commission to act as a zoning commission, too.

Bloodmobile At CLU Aug. 13

EAST STROUDSBURG — The Red Cross Bloodmobile will be at the CLU Club, 265 S. Courtland St., East Stroudsburg, on Thursday, Aug. 13, from 10:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., according to Irving Goldberg, public relations director for the service.

Koufax Wins No. 16

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Sandy Koufax became the majors' first 16-game winner as the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates 5-1 Tuesday in the opener of a two-night doubleheader.

Koufax, who has lost five games, surrendered a run in the seventh when Dick Schofield doubled and Jerry Lynch followed with a pinch hit single, then was replaced by Bob Miller in the ninth when the Pirates loaded the bases on two walks and Schofield's single with one out.

Miller ended the threat by getting Bob Bailey to line into a doubleplay.

Koufax struck out six and walked five, allowing six hits before he left.

Tigers Edge Chisox, 4-3

CHICAGO (AP) — The Detroit Tigers, held to a bunt single for seven innings by Chicago left-hander Gary Peters, struck for four runs in the eighth and defeated the White Sox 4-3 Tuesday night.

Don Demeter's three-run homer capped the rally as the Tigers snapped Chicago's five-game winning streak and ended Peters' string of five successive victories — over two seasons — against Detroit.

Collegian QBs Key To Victory

BY JERRY LISKA
EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — If the National Football League champion Chicago Bears are upset by the College All-Stars Friday night, it's a good bet the hatched man will be one of the three All-Star quarterbacks.

All-Star victories are comparatively sparse in this 41-year-old series with the NFL champs, but in seven of the last nine games, a quarterback won the All-Star most valuable player vote.

Junior Golf Tourney Set

SHAWNEE — The fourth annual Fred Waring Junior Golf Championship will be held today at Shawnee with a field of 180 players ranging in age from 8 to 17.

Included in the field is 15-year-old Jack Purdy of Lake Mohawk, N.J., who last year fired a brilliant four-under-par 65 to capture the championship. Play starts at 9 a.m. with a shotgun start and continues throughout the afternoon. A cookout will follow the competition.

With only three work days before Friday night's kickoff, both the All-Stars and Bears have shelved all contact drills and will concentrate on timing and strategy.

CHICAGO (AP) — Quarterback George Mira of Miami, Fla., and Iowa linebacker Mike Reilly were named co-captains Tuesday of the College All-Star squad which will meet the Chicago Bears in Soldier Field Friday night.

Mira was picked to lead the offense and Reilly will be in charge of the defense. The players were selected by vote of their teammates.

With marriage did not stop the six-foot-two-inch 170-pounder from continuing on with what he now calls his hobby.

"I've found it very relaxing to go out and run four or five miles a day," he says, "in much the same tone as another man would remark that he likes to take a walk every morning for about four or five blocks before breakfast."

But the way he describes his "serious training" for the 1964 Olympics sounds like anything but easy. "I'll be running 125 miles a week then," Andy explains, "and when I run up Camelback, it will be with combat boots."

Meanwhile, his sun-rise jaunts have not been lonely ones. He's been running with a partner, William Ace, a Stroud Union High School graduate who has plans of making the Penn State cross-country team.

Andy lives at 66 Penn St., East Stroudsburg, with his wife Elaine and three sons, "Timmy," 3, "Buddy," 2, and "Andy," six months.

Says Andy: "I have my own relay team now, including myself."

Andy's father, Fred Waring, is a former professional football player and coach. He is now a coach at the Stroud Union High School.

Andy's mother, Mrs. Waring, is a former professional basketball player and coach. She is now a coach at the Stroud Union High School.

Andy's grandfather, Fred Waring, is a former professional football player and coach. He is now a coach at the Stroud Union High School.

Shawnee Pro Topped By 5

SHAWNEE — Miss Diane Schlegel carded a net 68 yesterday on the 18-hole course at Shawnee Country Club as the Shawnee golfers tried to beat the pro, Bill Boorman.

Using full handicaps, five Shawnee golfers beat Boorman's net 77 score while two more players tied the 77. Mrs. Gordon P. Savage scored a net 72 while Mrs. Arthur Enslin, Miss Adelaide Sheble and Mrs. Herbert C. Behrens each tied with a net 76.

Tying the pro for the tournament prize were Mrs. Elmer D. Christine and Mrs. Jesse D. Pierson each with a 77.

Low Gross

Miss Schlegel took low gross honors in Class A with her 85 while Mrs. Herbert C. Behrens was runner up with an 87. Miss Adelaide Sheble took top honors in Class B with a low gross score of 88 and Mrs. Savage gained low gross honors for Class C as she recorded a 103.

Mrs. Edward Williams scored 29 putts for the day's event while Mrs. Louis Protzman took top honors for the association putters.

Mrs. Sykes reminded all members of the golf association that the deadline for the championship tournament would be Friday at 6 p.m. Members who wish to play next week in the women's championship must be signed in the locker room by the deadline.

No qualifying rounds will be played this year as players will be assigned flights according to their existing handicaps.

Counterman's Nips Poconos

EAST STROUDSBURG — Counterman's and Methodists will meet in a playoff today for the second-half championship of the East Stroudsburg Little League.

The game will start at 6 p.m. Counterman's won the first-half title and finished in a tie with Methodists for the second-half championship.

Both teams collected only two hits. Hoppe and Olmick both doubled for the winners, while Van Why tripped and singled for the Poconos' only safeties.

Spinner hurled the route for Counterman's to gain the win while Taylor also hurled the distance, absorbing the loss.

NEW YORK (AP) — Alvin Dark will not be back as manager of the San Francisco Giants next year. The Associated Press was told Tuesday night by a club official.

Dark's dismissal may be announced even before the end of this month.

It will not be due to recent statements attributed to him construed as being prejudicial remarks about Negroes and Latin-Americans, the source said.

The source said that strained relations existing between Dark and club owner Horace Stoneham have worsened in recent weeks to a point where Stoneham reportedly has decided a change in his manager is necessary.

PMBL Stars Vs. Wind Gap In Arc Clash

STROUDSBURG — The Pocono Mountain Baseball League All-Stars meet the Wind Gap Stars of the Blue Mountain League in an arc contest at Bangor Park starting at 8 o'clock.

Dick Miller, manager of the first-place A's in the PMBL, said last night that Paul Frailey of Reeders will be the starting pitcher. Harold Litts of Bushkill will be working behind the plate.

Coaches for the PMBL Stars will be Curt Hickman, manager of the Bushkill team, and Horace Hartshorn, Reeders manager.

All PMBL players were requested by Miller to report to the Bangor field no later than 7 p.m.

Miller announced two possible lineups for the game. If either lefties Gary Strauss or John Churetta start for Wind Gap, the PMBL starters will be:

Tom Moreken, 2b; Bob Gombos, cf; Lou Fish, rf; Dick Schaller, 1b; Don Wescott, ss; Harold Litts, c; Bob Boyer, 3b; Larry Buzzard, lf; and Frailey, p.

If right-hander Felker starts against the Pocono squad, the lineup will read like this: Ron Bergman, 1b; Charlie Chromister, ss; Earl Meckes, 3b; Dean Leslie, lf; Larry Starnes, cf; Gerry Bond, rf; Bob Hallett, 2b; Litts, c; and Frailey, p.

Mrs. Sykes also reminded all members and their families of a family square dance to be sponsored by the country club for members at the pool Thursday at 8 p.m.

Washington Nips Cleveland, 4 To 2

CLEVELAND (AP) — Reliever Steve Ridzik held Cleveland to two hits over the final 7 1/3 innings, preserving Washington's 4-2 victory over the Indians Tuesday night.

Ridzik replaced starter Don Rudolph in the second inning with two men on and two out, got out of the jam and allowed only two base runners the rest of the way. Chico Salmon singled in the fourth and again in the ninth.

The victory brought Ridzik's record to 5-3.

The Indians scored their two runs in the first inning on a single by Dick Howser, a walk to Leon Wagner and Joe Azcue's double.

The Senators then came back with four runs in the second. Two runs scored on successive singles by Don Lock, Mike Brumley, Fred Valentine and John Kennedy off Pete Ramos. Sonny Siebert then replaced Ramos and was touched for two more runs on singles by Ed Brinkman and Don Blasingame.

Wall To Referee Lema Tourney

STROUDSBURG—Art Wall, Jr., the Poconos' good-will ambassador, will referee the Thunderbird Classic exhibition which will feature Tony Lema at Glen Brook Country Club Aug. 14.

Sponsored by the Ford Dealers' Assn., for the benefit of the General Hospital of Monroe County, the tourney will start at 2 p. m.

Announcement of Wall's role in the exhibition was made yesterday by Martin S. Baldwin, vice chairman of the event. Said Baldwin: "We are absolutely thrilled to have our own Art Wall present on this wonderful occasion when Tony Lema will be performing in the Poconos."

Big Money Winner

Lema, one of this year's top money winners in the pro golf circuit, will compete against Paul Patten, Glen Brook pro; Bill Bootman, of Shawnee Inn, and Hal Dymond, of Scranton CC.

Wall has become affectionately known as the Poconos' good-will ambassador since his long association with Pocono Manor Inn as the traveling golf pro. A former Masters champion, he has won many other coveted tournaments. He also holds the all-time PGA record for holes-in-one.

This year, Art was having one of his finest years, winning four professional tournaments, when he was forced to cancel out of the U. S. Open, the PGA and other nationally-ranked tourneys because of a pinched nerve in his shoulder and neck.

Shatters Record

While recovering from this ailment—and preparing for the PGA tourney—Wall shattered the Scranton Country Club course record with a brilliant 62.

Then, recovery was interrupted two days later when he suffered a recurrence of the same condition, forcing him to the sidelines once again.

Wall's role as a referee of the Lema exhibition will be "to properly interpret the rules and make decisions on any rules controversy that may arise."

"I'll Be There"

When first contacted by Baldwin to referee the exhibition, Wall stated flatly, "If I'm on my feet, I'll be there."

Known as "the quiet man of golf," Wall holds the reputation of being one of golf's most nattily-dressed players.

Pocono residents and tourists may witness the golf exhibition for a $3 fee which also includes parking. Tickets are on sale at many of the area golf clubs and business establishments.

Danny Kaye Tourney Set

TAMIMENT—Mountain View Golf Club of West Trenton, N.J., will try for an unprecedented third crown when it defends the Danny Kaye team championship trophy in the sixth annual better ball of foursome golf tournament at Tamiment-in-the-Poconos, Sept. 8, 9 and 10.

The New Jersey team first won the event over the 7,110-yard par-72 course in 1961 with a 69 low gross total. It repeated last year with a 67 score.

Andrews Air Force Base of Washington, D. C., which captured the trophy in 1962 with a 70 low gross, finished runner-up to Mountain View in the 1963 championship.

This year's tournament will be a 36-hole test instead of the 18 holes, as in previous years.

In addition to the Mountain View team, Andrews Air Force

'Sputnik' Moore Must Prove Self

WESTMINSTER, Md. (AP) — At the age of 30, Lenny Moore has to prove himself all over again. Moore, who is known as Sputnik, has scored 78 touchdowns for the Baltimore Colts but is only the No. 2 left half-back in training camp.

A series of injuries cut deeply into Moore's effectiveness the last two seasons. In 1962 he missed half a year because of a broken right kneecap. Last year an appendectomy and later, a kick in the head kept him out of seven ball games.

"I want to prove to myself that I still have it and I want to shut up a lot of mouths who were saying I was finished," said Moore at the Colts' camp at Western Maryland College.

"Trade Bait"

"I kept hearing talk that I was trade bait," said Moore. "It bothered me because I knew it was false. I had a talk with club officials and Coach Don Shula and we ironed out whatever differences we might have had.

"There was a big rumor that

Gappers Enjoy Cleanup As Much As 75th Celebration

DELAWARE WATER GAP — Delaware Water Gap residents had as much fun cleaning up after the two-night weekend celebration of the borough's 75th birthday as they had preparing for it.

The topic of conversation in most circles was the parade held Saturday night. "Beautiful and amazing for such a little village" were the comments frequently heard.

There were 32 sections in the parade. Robert Kaiser led off, carrying a large American flag. He was followed by Mrs. Carney Rose on her thoroughbred horse. Linda Kitchen, queen of the celebration, and Donna Widdoss and Linda Werkheiser, princesses, rode in one of the first cars.

Various costumed groups marched between the floats. They were the ladies of the Presbyterian and Methodist church auxiliaries, dressed in old-fashion costumes; the Lambert Cadet Drum and Bugle Corps from the American Legion; and the V.F.W.

Girl Scouts, Brownies, Boy Scouts, Little Leaguers, and a group of "Indians" also joined the parade.

Bewhiskered Man

Mrs. Helen Briggs' Chenille Shop had a bewhiskered man pushing the wheelbarrow used years ago by mailcarrier John Wallace Sr. The Coates Board and Carton Co. had an educational display with examples of containers they make fastened to racks on either side of their car.

Deer Head Inn had two pretty girls holding a sign which said "Home of Jazz" followed by a car with jazz musicians. The Waring Corporation featured the Pennsylvanians.

Antique cars were entered by Point of Gap, Cherry Valley Inn and the Mountain House. The Mountain House also had a smaller car labeled "Headin' for the Mountain House." Matas Cabins had a beautiful float in a Lemhi-Lenape Indian motif with a teepee surrounded by "Indians."

The Glenwood Hotel sponsored a band, and Adrians, the Bridge View Inn and Donaldson's had decorated cars. The Hot Fruit depicted a German group and Hickory Valley Farm

Broadway Success Forecast For Playhouse Comedy

By JEFF COX
Daily Record Reporter

MOUNTAINHOME — They're taking "Absence of a Cello" to New York in September — look out, New York!

Ira Wallach has created a delightful tidbit of comedy—with meaningful overtones for our age — and it's a good bet that the play will be received with plaudits by the New York critics.

For New York's sake, let's hope they keep the same cast.

had a complete kitchen with racks of shining pans and white-capped cooks.

Water Gap Country Club entered their golf buggy; the Pocono Wild Animal Farm had a tiny fire engine; Kittatiny Beach had silver canoes; seven uniformed men represented area Air Civil Defense; the local fire company had four trucks; and Portland entered their ambulance.

The Bearstop had a huge paper bear, topping their float; Smith's Mountain Rest featured "Indians"; Carney Rose drove a coach drawn by four ponies; and eight prancing horses followed one section of the parade.

The antique pictures display

If everyone laughed as hard as I did — and it sounded that way at the Pocono Playhouse opening of Wallach's effort — Mike Ellis should be laughing, too, banking his box office receipts.

It's not necessary to tell Fred Clark, Ruth White, Murray Hamilton, Mala Powers, Ruth McDevitt, Charles Grodin, and Carol Byron how good they were — the curtain calls proved that.

The audience clapped louder and harder than at any other play this season at the Playhouse.

The play concerns a physicist who needs some scratch. To get it, he applies to Baldwin-Nelson for a job. B-N, as the company is known by its "family," is the corporation man's dream.

Everything in the company, and about the company, is so Brooks Brotherish, so muted, so together, so stifling — including its interviewer.

Drawn Out Well

The humorous situation set up between a man with a mind, and a mind-rotter like B-N, parrying with each other, is so well drawn out by Wallach that little needs to be said.

The laughs are not stuck onto the play like bits of red paper on cardboard — they are an integral part of the play's meaning and action. They work with the play, not in spite of it.

Of course, this is the finest way to produce a laugh. The situation points up the absurdities of trying to create a corporate group of Lennon Sisters out of free spirits — as someone says, "We must know how to laugh at the absurdities of life."

on the White Fawn porch drew a constant crowd. Luigi Caporaso of Clark, N.J., won the grand prize of a portable TV.

The refreshment stand had 75 cakes donated in the two days of the celebration. Money was donated by local industries and citizens toward the expense of the celebration.

It also shows how the desire for money can crush the free spirit; and how, if the spirit is strong enough, it rejects the crushing and exerts itself.

These themes could be fodder enough for a dramatic play — Wallach's genius is that he has turned them into comedy and retained their inherent seriousness.

There is some by-play with a vacuum cleaner that is a little incomprehensible, but that's about all the fault finding this reviewer will indulge in.

Strange to say, for comedy, but the play actually rises above itself. At the end, one is left with a clearer perception of how a human being must act when confronted with a large paycheck from a company like B-N.

Direction Faultless

The direction was also faultless. But, with such a cast, what can you expect? Grodin, especially, conveyed the insipidity of the Wharton Weltanschauung.

This play, "The Absence of a

Cello," was the most enjoyable of the season for this reviewer. We wish it, and all concerned with it, every success in New York.

It is truly funny.

For your own sake, make a mental note to see this play, before you have to wait your turn in New York.
